

The Nepal Library Foundation (NLF) was established in 2005 with the purpose of promoting nationwide library development in Nepal.

We have a primary focus on supporting communities and schools who wish to build and run libraries. We do this by providing advice, training, IT support and installation services. We also promote the use of library resources to enhance employment and educational goals as well as reading for pleasure.

The success of our program is indicated by the rapidly growing demands for our services by communities who wish to invest in libraries to support their educational and economic needs. The NLF is limited by our ability to provide funding to help carry out these initiatives. To learn how you can get involved – email us at info@nepallibrary.org or to learn more about our work please visit www.nepallibrary.org

Highlights of the NLF's programs and activities:

- Direct financial support: for computers, equipment, books, and furniture for rural libraries
- Funding for our partner, Open Learning Exchange (OLE) Nepal, for the development and deployment of the Nepal's free and open source ePustakalaya digital library and its sister educational component, the ePaati which is deployed in schools and libraries across Nepal.
- Development of training programs for library management, network installations, and general librarianship.
- Promoting the habit of reading as a recreational activity.
- Fundraising and partial financing for the post-earthquake reconstruction of a community library and learning centre. The new model low-cost library adopts internationally compliant seismic resistant design.
